2024 Business Report

1. 2024 Operating Results

In 2024, the global economy is projected to remain resilient despite significant challenges. Growth is steady and inflation continues to slow - "almost as quickly as it rose". The pressure in the labor market was reduced, and we are experiencing a significant increase in shipments of AI-related products, including semiconductor advanced processes and AI servers etc. and the global economic growth rate, according to data from the International Monetary Fund (IMF), still reached 3.2% compared to last year's growth rate of 3.3%, which represents a slight slowdown.

The overall consumer spending or personal consumption expenditures in 2024 were affected by the global economic slowdown, resulting in a more moderate performance in the consumer electronics industry. However, the laptop (notebook) markets were still experienced slight growth and performed relatively well. It is currently estimated that the total shipment volume for the year will grow by approximately 2.5% year-over-year, reaching about 183 million units. A major portion of the Company's revenue comes from laptop chips and module products. Although shipment volumes continued to be influenced by the global economy and grew slowly, the increasing demand for AI and high computing power has driven the development of edge computing. The AI chips and features developed by the Company have been widely adopted by major laptop brands and marketed globally. As a result, revenue increased by 9.23% year-over-year, while net profit after tax grew by 29.7%.

Following the inventory reduction efforts across the laptop supply chain in 2023, the market demand returned to normal levels in 2024. However, due to high inventory levels, brand manufacturers faced significant operational challenges and thus planned to reduce inventory to relatively low levels. In response to this situation, the Company also made corresponding adjustments to accept customers' short-term orders and to meet the market demand. During 2024, the Company's product inventory levels returned to pre-pandemic levels. Most laptop-related product lines saw notable year-over-year growth, driven by factors such as increased market share and customers replenishing their inventories.

The Company continues to focus on its development of more optimized products to provide brand manufacturers with greater market competitiveness. In 2024, completed product developments include: pressure-sensing and haptic feedback driver chips for notebook (NB) touch pads; AI touch pads for best palm rejection with waterproof solutions; AI touch screen solution with active stylus tracking, simultaneous displays, palm rejection, and waterproof protection; fingerprint recognition devices for AI PCs; integrated display driver and touch screen controller chips for automotive displays; local dimming controller IC chips for automotive displays; and embedded fire-alarm control networking chips etc..

In 2024, the Company's various product lines benefited from its long-standing, stable technologies and continuous development of AI applications, achieving steady growth in the laptop market while also expanding into broader application areas. For touchpad modules, in addition to increased demand for larger modules to support multi-finger operations and the long-term trend toward integrating haptic feedback, the Company also developed several AI-related applications, such as combining pen functionality with the touchpad for writing and drawing, which hold significant potential to contribute to future product performance. There has been significant growth for touch screen chip products in 2024, mainly driven by increased market share of single-layer on-cell (SLOC) touch panels, greater adoption of capacitive technology in e-readers, and rising shipments of touch screen chips for high-end laptops. These developments are expected to further accelerate the Company's expansion into new technologies and applications. There has been significant growth for pointing devices in 2024 with over 50% year-over-year increase, supported by rising customer demand and the recovery of the Company's market share. The Company's consistently strong technology and robust research and development capabilities further support its development toward thinner and lighter designs. While the fingerprint recognition products faced multiple challenges in 2024, the active push by customers to develop AI-related applications is expected to lead to the integration of more functionalities and an increase in market penetration.

In 2024, the Company's standalone revenue reached NT$12.34 billion, with a consistently high gross margin of 50% and an operating profit margin of 26.4%. The Net income after tax was NT$2.74 billion.

2. 2025 Business Plans

After experiencing the impact of various economic events, including geopolitical conflicts and the conclusion of the U.S. presidential election, the global macroeconomic outlook for early 2025 remains stable, though uncertainties persist. Ongoing tariff issues continue to sway industries and international relations, adding variables to overall market performance. In the laptop markets, the Company continues to expand the application of AI chips and actively collaborates with customers to develop the AI PC market. Starting from the fourth season in 2025, Microsoft will no longer provide free software updates from Windows Update, technical assistance, or security fixes for Windows 10. Under consideration for Cyber security risk, it is expected to trigger a wave of commercial laptop replacements, likely bringing about a new wave of growth in the laptop market.

According to Omdia's market estimates and forecast, laptop shipments in 2025 are expected to grow in the mid-to-high single digits percentage year-over-year, with total shipments projected to reach 196 million units. Short lead-time orders are still expected in 2025, primarily due to brand manufacturers advancing procurement in anticipation of further tariff impositions. As AI technology continues to develop, cyber security environments also face increasing challenges. With Microsoft ending support for Windows 10, affected devices may become exposed to cyber security risks, which are expected to encourage users to upgrade their devices, further driving the replacement cycle. While the overall economic outlook remains uncertain, the Company continues to enhance its R&D capabilities, develop new technologies and applications, and maintain strong relationships with customers, aiming to steadily improve overall operational performance amid the uncertain global political and economic landscape.

In 2025, the Company plans to complete the development of several products, including: a touchpad solution supporting AI and enhanced finger/palm recognition functions; a pressure-sensitive haptic feedback touchpad solution for notebooks; a single-layer on-cell (SLOC) touch screen solution for Chromebooks (supporting waterproofing, glove operation, and active stylus input); a smart cockpit display solution with high-resolution local dimming control; a high-resolution, high dynamic range image processing solution for advanced driver-assistance systems (ADAS); an integrated touch driver solution for automotive displays (supporting waterproofing and glove operation); a fingerprint recognition solution for smart cards; and a GaN charger driver chip etc. In addition, the continued integration and expansion of technologies such as haptic feedback, fingerprint recognition, and SLOC, along with long-term improvements in design layering and function optimization to enhance both pricing and technological capability, are expected to drive average selling price growth. These developments are all favorable for improving the operational performance of the Company's laptop-related product lines.

The Company is endeavoring to expand its services and promote non-laptop products and applications. It began shipping ADAS for trucks in 2024 and simultaneously developed smart cockpits, hoping to extend the technology to areas beyond electric buses. In addition, we have also launched automotive electronically controlled glass chips that can adjust the glass light transmittance and color. By expanding more technologies and application areas, we hope to improve our operational performance.

The Company is focused on improving core technologies, providing customers with efficient and innovative products and services, and developing diversified products and applications to create diverse revenue sources, ensure operational resilience, implement corporate social responsibilities, and practice sustainable business philosophy. The Company is committed to promoting its influence in the three major aspects: economy, environment and society, and developing long-term and stable business strategies, and is committed to improving the Company's operations and profitability to create higher value and welfare and provide feedback to stakeholders.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the parent-company-only financial statements of the current period. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the parent-company-only financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

1. Valuation of inventories

Refer to Note (4)(g) for accounting policy on inventory, Note (5) for accounting estimations and assumption uncertainty of inventory valuation, and Note (6)(d) for the write-down of inventories to net realizable value.

Description of key audit matter:

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Due to the rapid changes in the economy and the environment, and the production technology update, the cost of inventories is at the risk of exceeding its net realizable value.

How the matter was addressed in our audit:

For the valuation of the inventories, we understand the Company's policy on the write-down of inventories and evaluate whether the methods and assumptions used to provide an allowance for the write-down of inventories are reasonable. Also, we obtain the calculation details of the provision for the write-down of inventories, and check whether those details are consistent with the accounting records. In addition, we performed procedures including sampling to examine the accuracy of inventory aging report and the net realizable value report.

2. Revenue recognition

Refer to Note (4)(o) and (6)(q) for accounting policy of revenue recognition.

Description of key audit matter:

The major business activities of the Company are the manufacture and sale of integrated circuits. The Company also offers research and development services with respect to the products presented above. Test of revenue recognition is one of the key audit matters in our audit. Revenue is the key indicator to evaluate the performance by investors and management, and thus, needs significant attention in our audit.

How the matter was addressed in our audit:

We understand the main revenue types and transaction conditions, and evaluate whether the timing of revenue recognition is correct; check the sales contracts of major sales objects, and test the Company's internal control methods regarding shipment operations and revenue recognition processes; perform trend analysis of the ten largest customers, so as to assess whether there is any material abnormality; select shipments for a period before and after the balance sheet date of the Company, and check relevant vouchers and forms to determine whether the sales revenue is included in the appropriate period of the financial statements.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Parent-Company-Only Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the parent-company-only financial statements in accordance with Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and with the IFRSs, IASs, IFRC, SIC endorsed and issued into effect by the Financial Supervisory Commission of the Republic of China, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of the financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the parent-company-only financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance (including the Audit Committee) are responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Parent-Company-Only Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the parent-company-only financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these parent-company-only financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- 1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the parent-company-only financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- 2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.
- 3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- 4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the parent-company-only financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- 5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the parent-company-only financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the parent-company-only financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- 6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Company to express an opinion on the parent-company-only financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the Company audit.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the parent-company-only financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

The engagement partners on the audit resulting in this independent auditors' report are Lu, Chien-Hui and Lee, Fang-Yi.

Independent Auditors' Report

To the Board of Directors of ELAN MICROELECTRONICS CORPORATION: Opinion

We have audited the consolidated financial statements of ELAN MICROELECTRONICS CORPORATION and its subsidiaries ("the Group"), which comprise the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2024 and 2023, the consolidated statement of comprehensive income, changes in equity and cash flows for the years then ended, and notes to the consolidated financial statements, including a summary of material accounting policies.

In our opinion, based on our audits and the report of another auditor (please refer to Other Matter paragraph), the accompanying consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of the Group as of December 31, 2024 and 2023, and its consolidated financial performance and its consolidated cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and with the International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRSs"), International Accounting Standards ("IASs"), Interpretations developed by International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee ("IFRIC") or the former Standing Interpretations Committee ("SIC") endorsed and issued into effect by the Financial Supervisory Commission of the Republic of China.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Financial Statement Audit and Attestation Engagements of Certified Public Accountants and Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with The Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. Based on our audits and the reports of other auditors, we believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis of our opinion.

Other Matter

We did not audit the financial statements of Top Taiwan X Venture Capital Co., Ltd., which represented investment in accounted for using the equity method of the Group. Those statements were audited by another auditor, whose report has been furnished to us, and our opinion, insofar as it relates to the amounts included for Top Taiwan X Venture Capital Co., Ltd., is based solely on the report of another auditor. The investment in Top Taiwan X Venture Capital Co., Ltd. accounted for using the equity method constituted 1.88% and 1.69% of the consolidated total assets on December 31, 2024 and 2023, respectively, and the related share of profit of associates accounted for using the equity method constituted 1.87% and 0.40% of the consolidated total profit before tax for the years then ended, respectively.

The Company has prepared its parent-company-only financial statements as of and for the years ended December 31, 2024 and 2023, on which we have issued an unmodified opinion with other matter paragraph.

Key Audit Matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgment, were of most significance in our audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

1. Inventory valuation

Refer to Note (4)(h) for accounting policy on inventory, Note (5) for accounting estimations and assumption uncertainty of inventory valuation, and Note (6)(d) for the write-down of inventories to net realizable value.

Description of key audit matter:

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Due to the rapid changes in the economy and the environment, and the production technology update, the cost of inventories is at the risk of exceeding its net realizable value.

How the matter was addressed in our audit:

For the valuation of inventories, we understand the Group's policy on the write-down of inventories and evaluate whether the methods and assumptions used to provide an allowance for the write-down of inventories are reasonable. Also, we obtain the calculation details of the provision for the write-down of inventories, and check whether those details are consistent with the accounting records. In addition, we performed procedures including sampling to examine the accuracy of inventory aging report and the net realizable value report.

2. Revenue recognition

Refer to Note (4)(o) and (6)(s) for accounting policy of revenue recognition.

Description of key audit matter:

The major business activities of the Group are the manufacture and sale of integrated circuits. The Group also offers research and development services with respect to the products presented above. Test of revenue recognition is one of the key audit matters in our audit. Revenue is the key indicator to evaluate the performance by investors and management, and thus, needs significant attention in our audit.

How the matter was addressed in our audit:

We understand the main revenue types and transaction conditions, and evaluate the accuracy of the period of revenue recognition; check the sales contracts of major sales objects, and test the Group's internal control methods regarding shipment operations and revenue recognition processes; perform trend analysis of the ten largest customers, so as to assess whether there is any material abnormality; select shipments for a period before and after the balance sheet date of the Group, and check relevant vouchers and forms to determine whether the sales revenue is included in the appropriate period of the financial statements.

Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Consolidated Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and with the IFRSs, IASs, IFRC, SIC endorsed and issued into effect by the Financial Supervisory Commission of the Republic of China, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance (including the Audit Committee) are responsible for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- 1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- 2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- 3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- 4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
- 5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

6. Obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

The engagement partners on the audit resulting in this independent auditors' report are Chien-Hui Lu and Fang-Yi Lee.
